GETTING UP LACE-BORDERED HANDFIRCHERS AND REAL WHITE LACE.—
Generally speaking real lace after wishing requires only to be ioned, and when it does need some additional siffening you should not use starch, but discover a little pure white gum arabic, and very sparingly add some of that to the rinning water. Lace should be ironed on a piece of flannel, and have another piece over it; then join over this last with a hot iron. Always bear in mind that lace must be covered when you iron it. To do it properly, all cuffs and frills should be unpicked before washing, and the lace ironed out straight. You can then tack it to the band and arrange the fulling with the fingers. Better not to use the goffiring irons at all on things you are particular with, but it you must do so be careful that the jims are not hot. If they are, you will be sure to discolour the lace.

A Driesino for Tarraulin.—Sail cloth or strong canvas are the best materials to work upon. Grind 6lb. of English ochre with hoiled oil, and add lib. of black paint. The mixture so made will not look a very good black, but that you must not heed. The mixture add loz. of yellow soap dissolved by heat in which hoiled oil and all a pint of water, and mixed half a pint of water, and mixed with paint while hot. The mixture sate flat of the dissolved by heat in the mixture and loz. of yellow soap dissolved by heat in the mixture and loz. of yellow soap dissolved by heat in the mixture and loz. of yellow soap dissolved by heat in the mixture and loz. of yellow soap dissolved by heat in the mixture and loz. of yellow soap dissolved his paint while hot. The mix ture must be applied to the dry canvas as stiff as you can conveniently lay to with heat while hot with the brush. Allow it to dry for 2 days, and then lay on a second coat of the ochre and noaint without any soap. Give this full time to dry, then so you may fold it up without its sticking together, and so completely waterproof is this preparation that canvas thus prepared is used stretched boat.

Lee Pupping.—Take 100z. of sifted over a frame, as a fishing or other boat.

ICE PUDDING.—Take 100z. of sifted signs and the yolks of 10 eggs, beat them well up together, then mix them with a pint and a half of equal proportions of mixed milk and cream. Have a pan of boiling water, and stand the jug containing the above mixed he jug containing the above mixed it, and sir carrefully till the colly one continued to the pour it into a tin and the lies of the sidness of a thick. Miss C. Cross. That charming young actress, Miss Irane Vanbrugh, had little chance for the exploiting of her ability as a refined comedian in the character of the adopted daughter, played by her for more than it was worth. The audience was a very kind one; for though too dispirited by the performance to applaud much, no sound of dissent escaped them. The customary compliments to actors and atthor were paid at the final fall of the curtain, but the plauditory expression was indicative of friendly courtesy rather than of cordial and enthusiastic appreciation.

COMING TO TERMS.

With the conclusion of an armistice between the Turkiah and Greek forces it may be eafely assumed that the most wanton little war of modern times is over. But the terms of peace have yet to be settled, and it is by mo means certain that the process of settlement will be either easy or speedy. Thanks to the personal intervention of the Car, the Sultan has abandoned the preposterous pretention to anner Thessaly. Europe, of course, could never permit that; and, doubtless, Abdul Hamid only put the claim forward in order to be able, by shandoning it under pressure, to insist upon other spells of victory. Probably he will be allowed a slight rectification of frontier, for purely strategic purposes, which will not involve the transfer of any Christian population to Mosiem rule. As to indemnity of £710,000,000 originally claimed, the Sultan now expresses his willingness to take less as a proof of his "most pacific intentiona" and out of regard for "the bankrupt condition of Greece." Assuredly he will have to take less, for the great difficulty of the future will be to find a way by which Greece may be snabled to pay anything at all. The solution of that problem will, probably, be found in the subjection of the finances of Greece to international control. Of course, the Athenian politicians will protest for all they are worth, but their protests will have to be overridden, and Greece will have to submit to a discipline which will really be a blessing in disguise. Besides, the dishouest little State, which has left its creditors unpaid in order to accumulate a war fund, must now expect the Powers to compel it to do what it has hitherto indignantly regressions of the expense to which she has been put, and, ultimately, Greek finance may be placed upon a sound basis for the future.

about the contest is that it was practically decided by the strong feeling shown by the undergraduates, though, of course, they had no vote. The very fixed impression which I took away from the sister university was that the boys wore, in nine cases out of ton, a great dual more sonable that the done, and that nothing in the world is more likely to units a major judging practical matters than to spend all his life at one of these great seats of icarning.
